"This trip was so rewarding in many ways. Thank you for this opportunity. I will never forget it. Learning the law of another country and in this setting was very rewarding. I enjoyed this trip very much and will recommend it to all friends of mine in law school."
— Program Participant

"I wanted to thank you again for the great experience I had in China. It was one of the best times of my life and I have so many memorable experiences. I learned a lot about Chinese law and gained a new perspective of the US legal system."
— Program Participant

"An excellent experience that helps connect the dots."
— Program Participant

"I can’t tell you how much I have appreciated the program here in Beijing – it was so well organized and the instruction was so rich, especially given the short time we were able to spend covering so many topics. Thank you so much for the years you have spent finesing the details of this program and for your willingness every day to chat with all of us on the developing legal system here in China."

MAY 31–JUNE 21, 2013
SUMMER STUDY OF LAW
in Beijing, China

The first summer law program in China’s historic capital, offering up to 6 hours of ABA-approved credit.

www.duq.edu/law/china
SUMMER STUDY of LAW in BEIJING

The growing importance of China in the world economy cannot be overstated. Increasingly, attorneys face legal issues involving their clients’ expanding interactions with the East. For this reason, young lawyers often find that basic knowledge of Chinese laws and legal history helps differentiate them on the job market.

Duquesne University School of Law’s summer study program in Beijing is the oldest ABA-approved summer study program in China. With this rich history comes a close working relationship between Duquesne and the program’s co-sponsor, the China University of Political Science and Law (CUPL), China’s largest and most prestigious law school.

Working in consultation with Duquesne law professors, CUPL professors recognized as experts in their fields introduce program participants to various substantive areas of law in the Chinese legal system. Past courses have included areas of recent interest in the Chinese legal community – such as Intellectual Property Law, Environmental Law, and Human Rights Law – as well as more traditional courses in Civil Law, Constitutional Law, and Business Law, to name but a few.

Open to English-speaking law students at law schools throughout the world, Duquesne’s summer study program offers five (5) credits of course work with the option of earning one (1) additional credit for participating in a legal clinic and/or completing an approved internship with a law firm in Beijing. Per ABA regulations, students may earn up to a maximum of six (6) credits for their participation in the program.

COURSE WORK
Five Credits, May 31 – June 21, 2013

Students gain a comprehensive understanding of the Chinese legal system, domestic and foreign economic laws of the People’s Republic of China (PRC), and the role of China and foreign lawyers in the PRC through three weeks of coursework in which all major areas of Chinese substantive law are covered. Students receive five (5) ABA-approved credits and a certificate upon their successful completion of the course work. Student performance in the course is evaluated through a written examination administered and graded entirely at the discretion of Duquesne University law professors.

OPTIONAL CLINIC PROGRAM
One Credit, May 27 – May 31, 2013

Program participants may enroll in a one-week Labor Law Clinic or Intellectual Property Law Clinic from May 27 to May 31. Up to ten students may participate in each clinic. Participants work in “storefront” law offices or in law firms with CUPL law students. Participants attend lectures, take educational fieldtrips, and meet with clients (i.e., Chinese citizens who cannot afford to pay for legal services). Cost of participation in the optional clinic program is $150. Students are awarded one (1) pass/fail credit.

OPTIONAL INTERNSHIP PROGRAM
One Credit, June 24 – July 5

Up to ten internship placements in major Beijing law firms are available to program participants; proficiency in Chinese language is not required. Internships commence at the conclusion of the course and continue for a period of two weeks. Cost of participation in the optional internship program is $150. Students are awarded one (1) pass/fail credit.

The classroom: Beijing

Clara’s for the five-credit course meet during the week in the mornings, enabling students to explore Beijing in the afternoons and on weekends. Classes are held in a comfortable setting at CUPL’s downtown campus, which is within a short commute to such internationally famous sites as Tiananmen Square, the Great Hall of the People, the Forbidden City, the Silk Market, and the Summer Palace. Students are free to travel around the city at their leisure, explore Beijing’s historic streets and neighborhoods, and interact with its friendly citizens. As the magnet city that draws people from all of China’s provinces for sightseeing and business visits alike, Beijing is ideally suited for offering an unforgettable introduction to this vast and diverse nation.

SIGHTSEEING TOURS TO XI’AN and SHANGHAI

The program sponsors two optional sightseeing tours for an additional charge: one to Xi’an, one of the oldest cities in China and site of the world-famous terra cotta figures and museum, and one to Shanghai, an important center of financial and cultural influence throughout the East.

FACULTY

American scholars Professor Alfred S. Veléz, Professor Frank Y. Liu, and Professor Jacob H. Roskelly oversee all academic and administrative aspects of the program. The School of International Study of CUPL coordinates the teaching of CUPL faculty, government officials, and prominent attorneys who also participate in the program.

STUDENTS

Nearly 670 students from over 190 American, Canadian, Mexican, European, South American, and Australian law schools have participated in the summer program since its inception in 1995. Many are students between their first and second years of law school, although any law student in any year of study is eligible to enroll.

TRAVEL

DOCUMENTATION: Duquesne University will provide instructions for participants to apply for a visa from the appropriate PRC consulate office in the United States. All students must have a valid passport and visa for travel to and from the PRC.

TRAVEL COSTS: Travel costs to and from Beijing are not included in the price of tuition. Airfares vary widely based on a number of factors. We recommend that you consult travel agents and travel websites to obtain the lowest available fare.

LIABILITY: Duquesne University is not responsible for any personal injury, property damage, or illness encountered by participants during the program. All students are advised to purchase appropriate insurance against accidents and loss of possessions. Each participant must provide proof of medical insurance covering travel in China. Professor Liu, who is fluent in Mandarin, together with English-speaking CUPL representatives will be available at all times to assist students with any medical emergencies or other problems that may arise.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Housing is provided in the Jingjing Express Inn, a hotel with Western-style bathrooms, air conditioning, carpeting, and in-room, high-speed, wired Internet service. The hotel is conveniently located within walking distance of the CUPL campus and various local and international restaurants. It is also centrally located to many points of interest in Beijing.

CANCELLATION

Duquesne University reserves the right to cancel the program due to insufficient enrollment or other extraordinary conditions. Deposits will be refunded only in the event of program cancellation.

FINANCIAL AID

Students may apply for student loans through their own law schools to attend the program. Please contact your school’s financial aid office for the proper loan application procedure. Duquesne University will provide supporting documents.

APPLICATION

ELIGIBILITY: Enrollment is open to American and other English-speaking law students who are in good academic standing, as well as law school graduates.

APPLICATION AND PAYMENT DEADLINES: The application form and a non-refundable deposit of $250 must be received by March 31, 2013. The balance of tuition and fees ($2,496) must be received by April 30, 2013.
