Academy of Neurological Communication Disorders and Sciences (ANCDS) (2012-2014)

International Society for Gesture Studies (ISGS) (2011-2018)

V. Teaching

A. Graduate courses taught

Speech Production Disorders, SLP 505, 3 credits

Research in Speech-Language Pathology, SLP 515W, 3 credits

Multicultural Issues in Speech-Language Pathology, 2 credits, SLP 558; Title of course changed to Intercultural and Global Issues in SLP in 2020

Voice Disorders, SLP 554, 3 credits

B. Undergraduate courses taught

Phonetics, SLP 320, 3 credits

Language Development, SLP 205W

C. Clinical Teaching

2008-present, Program Director of Speech Production Clinic, Duquesne University Speech-Language-Hearing Clinic, Duquesne University.

D. Academic Advisement or Supervision

1. Dissertation committees as a member

Michelle Dineen, 2021-present. Dissertation title: TBD. Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science. North Chicago, IL.

2. Thesis committees chaired

1. Courtney Armstrong, Committee Chair, 2017-2018. Thesis titled: Use of Ultrasound Biofeedback in Accent Modification for Native Mandarin Chinese Speakers.
2. Jessica Lynch, Committee Chair, 2011-2012, Thesis titled: Effectiveness of Manual Gestures in the Treatment of /r/ Distortions.
3. Christina Beatty Kepins, Committee Chair, 2011-2012, Thesis titled: Motor Abilities and Gesture Use of Preschool Children.

2. Thesis committees as a member

1. Clare Rahill, Committee Member, 2018. Prospectus titled: They Got the Beat: The Effect of a Visual Communication Partner and Age on Beat Gesture Production. Thesis not completed, though Ms. Rahill continued with this project under guidance of Dr. Rusiewicz. She presented findings at the Duquesne University Graduate Research Symposium in March 2019 and was the recipient of the John G. Rangos, Sr. Award for Graduate Research.
2. Jenna Reade, Committee Member, 2017-2018. Thesis titled: Role of Computer-Based Instruction in Promoting Social Metalinguistic Skills in Individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorder.
3. Joanne Kinney, Committee Member, 2016-2017. Thesis titled: Drawing Conclusions on Aphasia: An Examination of the Relationship between Word Retrieval, Drawing, and Semantics.
4. Megan Weigel, Committee Member, 2012-2013. Thesis titled: Adolescents Who Stutter: Perceptions of Effective Therapy Techniques.
5. Brittany Horvath, Committee Member, 2012-2013. Thesis titled: Shared Book Reading Efficacy for Children with Severe Communication Impairments.
6. Kristen Wenthien, Committee Member, 2012, Thesis prospectus titled: Treatment of Young Children Post-Pediatric Stroke: The Role of the Speech-Language Pathologist.
7. Katie Belardi, Committee Member, 2009-2010, Thesis titled: Indicators of Linguistic Processing Constraints in the Narratives of Individuals with High-Functioning Autism.

3. Number of scholarly activities and academic advisees

1. Thesis advisees (see above): 10 to date (3 chaired; 7 committee member)
2. Students mentored for Independent Study with a research focus
 - a. Grace Kovalcik, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2023. Focus: Phonetics

and manual mimicry gestures: Phonetics Phrenzy digital platform to provide education on speech production

- b. Kathryn Leash, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2022. Focus: Manual mimicry gestures as a cue for speech sound goals and objectives.
- c. Shea Miller, Independent Study Advisor, Fall 2021. Focus: Using music and movement to support speech development in young children via short videos.
- d. Brooke Yurick, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2020. Focus: Using music and movement to support community engagement initiatives that support speech development in children.
- e. Nicole Purwin, Independent Study Advisor, Fall 2018. Focus: Hand gestures and vocal performance.
- f. Lauren Moyer, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2018. Focus: Community engagement in speech-language pathology.
- g. Clare Rahill, Independent Study Advisor, Fall 2016. Research focus: Co-development of gestures and prosody.
- h. Janel Moriarty, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2016. Research focus: Childhood apraxia of speech.
- i. Kaitlin Maize, Independent Study Advisor, Fall 2012. Research focus: Pediatric neurogenic speech disorders.
- j. Casey Grzybeck, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2012. Research focus: The role of the speech-language pathologist in the management of sports-related concussion in adolescents.
- k. Breanna Fisher, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2012. Research focus: Assessing and treating prosodic deficits in children.
- l. Katie Cunningham, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2011. Research focus: Prosodic deficits as a hallmark of childhood apraxia of speech.
- m. Maria Houmis, Graduate Independent Study Advisor, 2011. Research focus: The utility of manual movements in the treatment of speech sound disorders.
- n. Megan Pellettiere, Independent Study Advisor, Spring 2009. Research focus: Foreign accent reduction and the role of the speech-language pathologist in a corporate setting.
