Abstract
Fashion, in and of itself, is one of the most creative, and beautiful visual arts out there. Although, as the saying goes, “every rose has its thorn.” And, fashion, most certainly has its thorn. Its thorn is fast fashion and the negative implications on the humans and the environment which serve this thorn. In my poster, I use a domino-like effect (represented by the boxes and the arrows in a flowing pattern) to stimulate the outward consequences and impact of corporate decisions to minimize production cost and maximize profit. As you can see, it has quite the negative impact!
