THE OTHER SYNAESTHESIA

DR. SUSAN BERNSTEIN

Brown University

Susan Bernstein is a professor of Comparative Literature as well as of German at Brown University. She works primarily in German, French, English, and American literature of the 18th–20th centuries. She has particular interests in literary theory, literature and the arts, Romanticism, philosophy and poetry. Bernstein received her doctorate from the Johns Hopkins University, her B.A. from Yale and her M.A. from the University of California, Berkeley. She also studied at the Freie Universität Berlin and at the École normale supérieure in Paris.