MORAL INJURY and the Role of Community in the Veteran’s Homecoming
This one day conference aims to bring together veterans, their families and friends, students, and mental health professionals to highlight the essential role of the community in the veteran’s homecoming.

Discussions will include:
- PTSD and moral injury
- military sexual trauma
- the veterans court
- the religious community
- homecoming through community service
- social meaning of moral injury
- lessons from around the world

Register at: duq.edu/ptsd

Earn continuing education credits through Duquesne University’s School of Nursing—an approved provider of continuing education in nursing by the Pennsylvania State Nurses Association—which is an accredited approver of continuing education for nursing, psychology, and other mental health professionals.