Your Passport to an Unforgettable Spring Break

Fits your major, fits your schedule!

WHAT IS A SPRING BREAK AWAY COURSE?
A “typical” spring semester course that meets all semester on campus, but also includes a faculty-led international study tour during Spring Break, February 29-March 8, 2020. Since the study tour is integral to the academic course, you must commit to participating in and paying for the spring break study tour component.

WHAT DOES IT COST? $3,300 all inclusive
What does this include? Just about everything! All travel will be arranged and will include airfare, land transportation, housing, site admissions and most meals.

LONDON: History of Photography (ARHY 220-B01)
Tuesday/Thursday | 3:05 - 4:20 p.m.
Fulfills Creative Arts Theme Area
You will study the history of photography with special focus on the medium’s early years in England. You’ll experiment with early photographic processes in the classroom and then travel to historic sites in England such as Lacock Abbey, where the first photographic negatives were made. There are unique collections to see in London’s great museums, and you will also have time for some of London’s iconic sites such as the Tower of London.

ATHENS: Basic Philosophical Questions (UCOR 132-B02)
or the Meaning of Life (PHIL 269-B01)
Tuesday/Thursday | 3:05 - 4:20 p.m.
Fulfills CORE Course
You will read famous Greek writers such as Homer, Plato, and Aristotle and then travel to Athens, Greece to experience the settings that inspired them. With the Aegean sea, warmth of the Greek people, good food and drink, you will have the best Spring Break ever!

LONDON & SCOTLAND: Psychology of Human Experience (PSYC 205-B01)
Monday/Wednesday | 4 - 5:15 p.m.
Fulfills Faith & Reason Theme Area
The Psychology of Human Experience will make you think again, via readings of psychoanalysis, phenomenology and existentialism, about what it means to be human. From the Freud Museum and the National Gallery, to the major sites of London (Trafalgar Square, the Tower of London, and many other world-famous sites), our travels to London and Scotland will offer you a first-hand look into the history of psychology and our reflections on being human.
BELIZE: Environmental Sociology (SOCI 220-B02)

Wednesday | 3:00 - 4:15 p.m.

Fulfills Social Justice & Global Diversity Theme Area (Hybrid)

This course examines the complex interactions between societies and their environment, compares how different types of societies adapt to specific environments and evaluates how changing environments require changes in society. Belize is the perfect place to travel to see first-hand how a society adapts and changes in response to its environment. Our class will be project-based with teams evaluating the cultures, environments and social/environmental issues we observe in Belize.

This is a Hybrid Class that only meets for 4 physical class meetings during the semester. The rest is online or on-site.

ROME: Writer’s Sketchbook (ENGL 336-B01)

Tuesday/Thursday | 4:30 - 5:45 p.m.

Fulfills Creative Arts Theme Area

This creative writing course focuses on seeing and discovering new places, while incorporating writing and informal modes of sketching to observe what’s around us as we travel. While spending Spring Break in Rome along with a day trip to Florence, you will visit historic sites like the Pantheon, the Vatican and the Duomo to write and sketch. You will tour museums, relax by gorgeous fountains and wander through small shops on cobblestone streets into stunning views. No experience in creative writing or drawing is required.
